B.C. WILL FIGHT EASTERN ATTEMPT TO OVERTHROW ITS GREAT GRAIN RATE VICTORY

Oliver to Send McGee to Ottawa to Oppose Montreal Application for Cancellation of New Low Rates on Grain Moving Through Pacific Ports; Eastern Interests Rally to Block Liberal Government's Equalization Policy and Keep Grain From Coming West; Manson Sees Eastern Selfishness at Work.

British Columbia's grain rate victory will be at stake September 29 when Eastern interests apply to the Railway Commission for a cancellation of its recent order establishing low Crow's Nest rates on westbound grain. This move will be strongly opposed by the British Columbia Government, backed by Western business interests, Premier Oliver announced today. G. G. McGee, Government rate counsel, he stated, would appear before the railway board to oppose the Montreal application.

"This effort to upset our great rate success must be fought at all costs and to the last ditch," the Premier declared emphatically.

The Montreal application, Mr. Oliver was informed in a telegram from officials of the Railway Board, asks that the recent grain rate equalization order be rescinded at once. It urges further that the whole question of western grain rates be considered when the national revision of rates is under way and not before. Should this application succeed the low rates ordered by the Railway Board would not remain in effect and the question of western grain movement would be thrown into the melting pot again.

The application to be considered by the Railway Board September 29 is sponsored by the Montreal Board of Trade on behalf of the Montreal Corn Exchange. It represents, however, all the powerful eastern interests arrayed against the equalization policy of the Mackenzie King Government.

The Railway Board's equalization order followed the Government legislation providing for the equalization of rates throughout Canada. So important did the Railway Commission consider the question of western grain rates that it ruled on them in advance of any action on other phases of the whole rate question. Now Montreal interests, which would be affected by the new Government of grain, western, are attempting to subvert all the advantages gained by western Canada as a result of the Government's rate policy.

WILL GO INTO EFFECT
Meanwhile the low rates will go into effect on the westward-moving grain on September 15. Whether they remain, however, will not be decided until the Board rules on the application September 29. Six members of the Board, it is expected will consider this case. When the equalization order was made only two commissioners took no part in it but

SAANICH WINS SECOND PLACE AT ROYAL CITY

Gives Langley Close Race For Dewar Cup For District Display

Awarded $400 Prize in Competition With Eight Other Communities

Saanich has been awarded second place in the district display contest at the New Westminster Exhibition, giving the district of Langley the closest run in years before yielding priority to the four times winner of the Dewar Trophy.

This is the second occasion when Saanich has invaded the Mainland with an agricultural display, and on each invasion has proven one of the major attractions of the New Westminster Fair. Repeating last year's magnificent effort, the Saanich entry, arranged by a committee directed by W. Michel of Keatinge, only lost first place by a few points, the award of $400 for second place being the more remarkable considering the eight other district collections were before the judges.

LANGLEY RETAINS TROPHY

New Westminster, Sept. 10.—Langley retained the challenge shield presented by Lord Dewar and won the $500 cash prize in the 1925 district exhibition contest staged in connection with the Provincial Exhibition here. The award was announced late last night by Professor Paul Boivin, one of the judges, during a banquet given to the agricultural exhibitors by the fair management. Saanich, the Vancouver Island entry, came a close second.

Spanish Demonstration in Alhucemas Bay Shock to Abd-el-Krim

Cex, Sept. 10.—In French military circles here it was said to-day the Spanish demonstration in the Bay of Alhucemas appears to have been a shock to Abd-el-Krim, the Riffian warlord. He is said to be rushing reinforcements to Ajdir from other parts of the line.

The Rifmen, however, still are active in the centre in the region of Tacnat and around Djebel Nehr. On the east, but two strong columns of Gen. Brunet and Dillottet it is understood, are about to start a large scale operation between Tacnat and Terroual in an effort to clean up the Riffians on the central section of the line.

CHINAMEN HELD IN PRISON ARE GIVEN RELEASE

Men Under Drug Sentences Gain Freedom on Technicality; Deportation Fails Through Attack on Warrant of Commitment.

By a ruling of Chief Justice Hunter on a habeas corpus application made by Stuart Henderson which had previously been refused by Mr. Justice Murphy in Supreme Court Chambers the prison gates are thrown open to seventeen Chinamen serving jail sentences ranging from six to eighteen months under the Opium and Narcotic Drug Act. Some of the Chinamen who are from Victoria, Vancouver, Richmond and Vernon have completed their sentences. All however, receive their freedom and escape deportation which was to follow their jail sentence.

Twenty-six applications were made in all and opposed by A. D. Macfarlane for the Crown. Ten were refused. Mr. Henderson made the application on the grounds that the warrant of commitments were incomplete, and therefore irregular, because they did not provide for costs in addition to the jail sentence and fine. Costs he argued were specified under the Act. Mr. Justice Murphy held that the costs and fine were desirable, but Chief Justice Hunter was not in accord with him on this point. In his opinion, he said, costs were specified to relieve the public of the costs of maintenance and prosecution against men engaged in the opium traffic, were obligatory and not at the discretion of the magistrates.

Those Chinamen detained for deportation regain their freedom under the ruling. Those who were to be deported after completing their jail sentences receive their discharge from Oakalla under the ruling of the Chief Justice.

VICTORIA CHAMBER INTERESTED IN PROMISING INDUSTRIES OF VANCOUVER ISLAND WEST COAST

Appreciation of the interest shown by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce in the industrial development of the West Coast of Vancouver Island and a cordial desire to work hand in hand with Victoria for the benefit of the Island, was marked at every point where the Chamber of Commerce delegation called on the eight-day trip on the Ss. Princess Maquinna, members of the party who returned to Victoria last evening report.

Those members of the party who had not previously taken the trip were impressed with the industrial activity at many of the places at which they called. At Sidney Inlet they saw eighty-three tons of fresh pilchard brought in on scows. In nineteen hours they also saw 23,500 pounds of fish meal manufactured and 2,620 gallons of fish oil.

The potential industrial greatness of the West Coast was revealed to the party by visits among other factories to that of Wallace Canneries at Kildonan and the Gosse Millard Company plant at San Mateo. At the latter plant they saw the process from time the salmon were landed from the fishing boats to the packing of the fish in cans ready for export to the world's markets.

The Victoria delegates also had the experience of being marooned on a sand bar at midnight. Leaving Tofino for Clayoquot the Maquinna settled on a bar between Tofino and Clayoquot. For five hours she remained on the bar, floating off at high tide.

Fish fertilizer and fish meal plants at Sidney Inlet, Matilda Creek, Nootka and the whaling station at Cache-lot were visited.

In addition to the industries the party were charmed with the wonderful scenery of the West Coast.

VANCOUVER BALLOT ON METROPOLITAN WATER BOARD PLAN

Pattullo and Municipal Representatives Pave Way For Water Settlement

Mayor Taylor, of Vancouver; Reeve Paton, of Point Grey; Reeve Brooks, of South Vancouver; Alderman MacLean, of Burnaby; Alderman Cree, of Point Grey and J. B. Williams, city solicitor of Vancouver, interviewed Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands, on the Greater Vancouver water question this morning.

It was agreed that the Water Act of last year, with some minor amendments, should form the basis of the new Water Board for the Greater Vancouver water area. It was also agreed that the municipalities of Vancouver, South Vancouver and Point Grey would submit a by-law to the people on the question, as provided for by the Act of last year. The question to be submitted to the electorate is:

"Are you in favor of the creation of a Greater Vancouver water district?"

The Minister of Lands expressed himself as much gratified with the result of the meeting this morning.

STATE OF IDAHO IS TO AUCTION FARMS

Lands Are Those Abandoned By Settlers During Last Few Years

Salt Lake City, Sept. 10.—The State of Idaho soon will sell at auction many farms and, according to Land Commissioner I. H. Nash, who was here today, they can be had for ten per cent. cash, and the balance divided into forty equal payments, due annually in successive years at six per cent. interest on deferred payments. The purchaser would be liable to taxation upon his equity only. Mr. Nash said, and while the state now has only 7,000 acres, he estimates this is only about one-seventh of the total acreage to be disposed of.

The land is valued by the state at from $20 to $100 per acre, and is all choice ground relinquished by settlers during the last few years of post-war depression.

The points secured by each district out of a possible 3,000 were exceedingly high and the scoring was very even.

Langley has now retained this shield for four years in succession. Saanich, which secured second place last year, when it made its first appearance in the contest, will receive this year a cash prize of $400.

A speaker at the banquet was Hon. E. D. Barrow, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, who said the British Columbia Government was considering plans to reduce the number of small farms in the province which did not add to the general prosperity or have any educational value for the province as a whole.

"With the elimination of the smaller farms, the Government will be in a position to give more adequate assistance to the staging of the larger exhibitors, of which is a decided benefit," the Minister stated.

NO PLEBISCITE IN REGION OF MOSUL

British Colonial Secretary Says Plan Advanced by Turkey is Impossible

Chamberlain Says Regional Agreements Best Guarantee of European Peace

Geneva, Sept. 10.—A plebiscite in the Mosul area of Northern Mesopotamia to decide whether the territory should go to Turkey or the British mandate state of Iraq is utterly impossible, L. C. Amery, British Colonial Secretary, said today in a statement in reply to the press correspondent here today. His statement was in reply to the memorandum calling for a plebiscite submitted to the Council of the League yesterday by Tewfik Ruzhdi Bey, Turkish Foreign Minister.

CHAMBERLAIN SPOKE

Addressing the Assembly of the League of Nations, Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, aroused applause at the very outset when he declared there had been a distinct growth of international interest in the League, but that was more important, a distinct growth in the League's authority.

He then launched into a discussion of the reasons for Great Britain's rejection of the peace protocol drawn up at the last meeting of the League. The protocol, he said, had obscured and destroyed the balance of the League covenant and emphasized too much the punishment for going to war rather than prevention of wars.

Moral sanctions were greater than those of force, he continued. Chamberlain in criticism of the protocol, which he believed was too ambitious, REGIONAL AGREEMENTS.

"Great Britain," he continued, "believes we should begin with modesty in the protocol. Our aim is to promote peace firmly, to abolish war if we can and if not, to render it difficult to make war and to give time to the friends of peace to make their influence felt and pronounce their verdict on the side of justice. The speaker then came out unequivocally in favor of regional agreements like that proposed with Germany as the most feasible means of achievement of the goal, saying:

"By such agreements we seek no fresh alliance and are directing force against no other party."

"I have no definite speaking engagements for the campaign as yet, but expect Progressive meetings will be held in various parts of the province within a few days."

MEIGHEN SPEAKS AGAIN

Bethany, Ont., Sept. 10 (Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—After a trip by motor over about 150 miles from Winnipeg, where he opened his Federal election campaign Tuesday night, to Toronto, where he spent last night, Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, conservative leader, arrived here this afternoon he again addressed voters.

His speech, while following along the main lines laid down in Wingham in so far as an announcement of policy was concerned, contained references applicable more particularly to this locality.

Mr. Meighen was accompanied by F. W. Bowen, late Conservative member of Durham, and Hon. R. J. Manion, of Fort William, who was Minister of the Interior in the Meighen Government.

Dr. Manion was one of the speakers this afternoon.

CHINA ANSWER NOTE FROM POWERS

Peking Not Satisfied With Plans For Extra-Territorial Conference

Peking, Sept. 10.—The Chinese newspapers report that the Foreign Office intends to issue a rejoinder to the reply from the powers to China's request for a readjustment of the tariff and extra-territorial treaties. The Yinh Pao usually a well-informed newspaper, says the Government intends to "refute" the reply. The Chinese document has been drafted, it adds, and will be sent to the Diplomatic Affairs Commission for discussion to-morrow.

The note from the powers, while agreeing to appoint commissioners to consider relinquishment of the extra-territorial rights held by their nationals in China, emphasized that the Chinese Government must give "concrete evidence of its ability and willingness to" respect for the safety of foreign lives and property and to suppress disorders and anti-foreign agitation.

CHLORINE SUPPLIES IN THEATRES SOON

Ohio Army Surgeon Predicts People Will Be Protected Against Colds

Columbus, O., Sept. 10.—Introduction of chlorine gas ejectors as regular theatre equipment may be expected in the near future, says Col. D. D. Burket, chief surgeon of the Ohio National Guard.

Col. Burket, because of his knowledge of chlorine gas treatment for colds, was made surgeon of the corps area at Camp Knox, Ky., while artillery units from the various states and the national guard were training there recently.

He says Louisville theatre owners, hearing of the successful use of chlorine gas at the camp, have made inquiries concerning its use with a view to installing ejectors in theatres as a protection to their patrons from colds. Col. Burket also predicts they soon will be installed in churches and schools for cleansing the air in much the same manner as water is purified. He says there is absolutely no danger connected with the use of the gas.

POWER DISCOVERY CLAIMED BY RUSSIAN

A. F. Joffe Says New Accumulator Will Mean Much For Industry

Leningrad, Sept. 10.—A scientific discovery that may have a revolutionary effect on industry is claimed by A. F. Joffe of the Russian Academy of Sciences.

Experimenting in his own laboratory, Joffe says he succeeded in obtaining a tremendous concentration of electric energy in a very small object. The accumulator which he constructed and charged with energy "sufficient to drive the most powerful motor car for ten days" is small enough to go into a waistcoat pocket.

He declares his experiments show possibilities of still greater concentration of electrical energy, and he hopes it soon may be possible to apply the discovery to general industries.

MAIL ROBBERY IN TOWN IN MINNESOTA

While two men covered him with guns, one tied Williams securely with wire. He was then forced to lie on the ground, face downward. The two others scattered the mail bags hurriedly about the ground, searching for registered pouches. With the four registered mail bags, the bandits fled in an automobile.

Police E. B. Hicks said he doubted the four bags contained any great sum.

The robbery was discovered when a Burlington railway employee, becoming alarmed at his failure to find the morning mail on his arrival for work, he discovered Williams in the alley lying beside the mail wagon.

Proposed German Steel Merger Makes Labor Tremble

Berlin, Sept. 10.—Dr. Otto Weidfeldt, former German ambassador to the United States, now head of the Krupp directorate, has been designated as the prime mover in a scheme to unite Rhenish steel industries in a huge combine, including the Krupp, Phoenix, Rhenish, Thyssen companies and the Rhein-Elbe union.

The plan is to concentrate the activities of the company for the regulation of production in order to eliminate all competition and fluctuation in prices. The future character of the new concern has not yet been revealed, but it is surmised that it will take the form of a limited company with a capital of 800,000,000 marks.

The amalgamation is viewed with concern in labor circles. It is feared that the promised war between the combine and independent firms would mean the crushing or reorganization of the latter with a consequent great labor shake-up and unemployment.

LAND CLEARING

Perth, Australia, Sept. 10.—The Government of Western Australia, having learned foreigners have secured a large proportion of the work offered in connection with the clearing of land for purposes of cultivation, has decided that in the future any money advances made to settlers by the Agricultural Bank to finance such work shall be made on condition that only British subjects shall be employed.

SAYS DEVELOPMENT NEED OF RAILWAYS

Beatty Declares Welfare of Systems Wrapped up in Canada's Advance

Toronto, Sept. 10.—Representatives of Canada's transportation interests were guests of the Canadian National Exhibition here today. E. W. Beatty, K.C., president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, being the chief speaker at the directors' luncheon.

After briefly reviewing the accomplishments of Canadian railways, Mr. Beatty, in addressing the directors, declared the only safe and certain cure of Canada's railway obligations rested upon the country's industrial and agricultural development.

CO-OPERATION DISCUSSION

Referring to suggestions made regarding co-operation between the Canadian National Railway and the Canadian Pacific Railway, the general president said that with a general election pending the present was not the time to express any personal views on the subject. He maintained that no charge of waste could be laid at the doors of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which had not increased its service in any material respect in the years and had been the subject of a general extension of its lines in the development of new territories. Mr. Beatty declared.

later passed a resolution declaring that the whole question of western grain rates must be referred to the course of the national rate revision. Since then the Board has been agitated by the addition of a new commissioner whose views are not known.

DEFIANCE OF PARLIAMENT

Rescinding of the Railway Board's equalization order would be in defiance of Parliament and a retrograde step from the standpoint of the Canadian people. Attorney-General Manson asserted on his return here today. Mr. Manson issues a statement on the rate question as follows:

The people of Canada are entitled to a decision on the rate of freight on grain and other commodities. The Railway Board's decision is one not only of great financial value to the prairies and to British Columbia, but it means that we have at last torn a breach through to the economic capping that has ever since Confederation restrained our development. It remains now to continue the fight until the whole capping has been completely shattered.

At every point in the 1,500 miles of the Southern Interior which I covered I found the people elated over the fact that we had at last made a decisive win on so crucial a matter. The people of the interior realize that although the present order will show its direct result most conspicuously in our export cities and especially in Vancouver, nevertheless the industrial activity of the seaports will inevitably mean improved conditions in the interior. The number of employees on the Railway lines will be increased, that the population of the coast cities will grow with greater rapidity and the consumption of British Columbia products, agricultural and mineral, will likewise increase.

PREMIER PRAISED

"It was gratifying to me to hear throughout the interior the unstinted tribute to the Prime Minister of this Province for the magnificent work he has done on the rate matter. The public realize that to Mr. Oliver they owe the greatest victory the Province has won since Confederation and they realize too that the Province has been exceedingly well represented before the commission through its counsel, Mr. McGee."

"I do not anticipate any difficulty by reason of the dissenting opinions expressed by three of the Railway Commissioners," said Mr. Manson. "The chairman and Mr. Frank Oliver constituted the board so far as this particular decision is concerned. The mere expression of opinion by three members of the board in so far as the grain rates case was concerned was of no effect. It would seem to me that the dissenting opinions of the two colleagues who did not agree with the chairman and Commissioner Oliver themselves appreciated that their expression of opinion was of no consequence, otherwise they would have gone further than the mere expression of opinion."

"It is amazing to learn that Montreal interests have launched an application to the Railway Board for the rescinding of the recent equalization order," Mr. Manson said. "If eastern selfishness is forever to dominate Canada then there is little hope for the harmonious upbuilding of the Dominion. Sir Henry Thornton surely laid down the right principle when addressing the Victoria Chamber of Commerce a year ago he concluded with the emphatic and striking statement that in Canada there should be neither East nor West. It is significant that Sir Henry and the

CHEQUE CHARGES HEARD IN WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, Sept. 10.—A fantastic succession of cheques cashed upon banks where he had no accounts, elopement with a girl whom he was supposed to be training as a nurse and evidence of curious dealings in many parts of Western Canada, failed to daunt "Doctor" Arthur Francis Blake, who appeared in police court here today on a charge of theft and fraud. He was remanded until Tuesday next to permit further investigation of his record.

Cowichan News

Special to The Times

Cowichan, Sept. 10.—On Wednesday, the Cowichan tennis challenge cup (ladies and men's) was completed for at the Lake Cowichan courts. Many matches of interest were witnessed. In the ladies' singles Miss K. Last year Mrs. Curtis-Hayward won the cup. In the men's singles interest centred in the match between Norman and Reg Corfield in the finals which were played on Saturday. A stout defence was put up by Reg throughout but the nimble placing of Norman brought him the hard-fought victory. For the third time he holds the cup.

In the semi-finals he had a hard tussle with his old time friend, Frank Kingston, who gave him some healthy exercise before winning the match. At the conclusion of play Mrs. Waidy presented the cups to the winners.

HOW IS IT?

TORY NEWSPAPERS IN this country must be finding it somewhat difficult to reconcile the melancholy utterances of Mr. Meighen with the hopeful news dispatches which they are pleased to place under the most cheering headlines. For instance, The Colonist of this morning informs its readers that all the signs "portend better times in this district," that bank clearings show an increase, that "tax collections improve and building development is expected," and that the "staple industries are busy." Our contemporary likewise points out that the public is promptly placing its orders for the new Dominion loan; in fact news items of this character—which it has very properly portrayed during the last few weeks—portray the direct opposite of Mr. Meighen's broadcasting and its own editorial approval of his doleful dirge.

The fact of the matter is, and The Colonist must realize it, Canada is in excellent shape at the present time and all the signs indicate that the voters of the country do not intend to do anything which is likely to disturb that condition. Nor would the wails of Mr. Meighen, the fulsome support which his journalistic supporters accord them, take on the least significance were it not for the fact that anti-Canadian influences, sinister agencies that are militating against this country's successful bid for more migrants, seize upon them and quote them as the authoritative judgment of a Canadian who has occupied the most important position of this country's Prime Minister. They contend, and it is not to be wondered at, that if a man of such standing as Mr. Meighen repeatedly declares that the Dominion of Canada is only a few steps from the abyss of economic disaster, there must be something in it. It is only given to them to take a superficial interest in Canadian affairs. They are not to know, for instance, that Dr. Tolmie addresses a service club one day and tells its members that Canada is all right and flourishing and then proceeds to tell a Tory audience that the country is on its way to the bow-wows. This is precisely what the Federal member for Victoria is doing. He has one fare for the non-political organization and another for the partisan atmosphere. Between these upper and nether stones Canada, in the language of the mob, is getting it in the neck.

BRITISH CONNECTION

IN SPITE OF ITS EXTREMELY woeful tone, for it sees a Canada almost on its last legs, The Mail and Empire of Toronto is at least original in some of its reasons for desiring the defeat of the King Government. The morning paper quotes its eastern contemporary as follows in respect of the British connection:

As for British connection, never more precious to Canada than it is now, never before promising to be of greater substantial advantage, the King Government has not been partial to it. Remember the excuses and explanations, and reservations made by the Premier in speeches delivered before he went to the last Imperial Conference.

The British connection is so precious in the eyes of Mr. Meighen that he would either seriously reduce, or abolish altogether, the preference now extended to British goods. The King Government has been sufficiently partial to the British connection to make it much easier for Britain, in her present dire need of markets, to do business with this country. And what more "substantial advantage" can The Mail and Empire demand than a trading arrangement which has given this country a favorable balance in the last two years alone of over $437,000,000? But it and the whole Tory party are opposed to the British preference and the Borden Government, of which Mr. Meighen was a member, raised the tariff against Old Country goods during the war—at a time when the economic life-blood of Britain was being drained by submarines. Now he waves the flag. The Mail and Empire also say that Mr. King has thrown cold water upon suggestions of co-operation within the Empire. All Mr. King did was to leave Great Britain's domestic policies alone. Mr. Meighen and Dr. Tolmie, on the contrary, assume that they know better what is good for the British taxpayer than he does himself. Mr. Baldwin tried their view out in 1923 and discovered that co-operation within the Empire is an excellent theory; but in some respects unworkable in practice. So much for pocket loyalty!

FREEDOM OF SPEECH

THE IDEA OF MR. SAKLAVALA being included in the delegation of the inter-Parliamentary Union from Great Britain has tickled the fancy of Arthur Brisbane, one of the most widely-read and best informed writers in the United States, who sees in the selection of this Parsee Communist member of Parliament for North Batters another evidence of the spirit of toleration which permeates the political and social life of the Old Country. Mr. Brisbane cites the numerous instances of Saklavala's disdain for British institutions and his utter contempt for the flag and comes to the conclusion that the "queer British people"—minus a constitution mentioning free speech—suffer very little from these "red" vapors and are considerably better off than the citizen of the United States who has free speech in his constitution, but forbids it in practice. All of which proves the theory that as long as the would-be reformer, the individual who would remake the world according to a Moscow or other freakish design can show his wares in the light of day, there is very little prospect of harm coming from the seeds he does his utmost to drop in fertile soil.

INTERWOVEN PROBLEMS

MR. MEIGHEN SAYS the railway problem is indirectly due to inadequate tariffs. According to him the lower tariff of the King Government is responsible for the exodus of thousands of Canadians. How do these contentions appear when analyzed? In the first place they are interdependent. The railway problem is a problem for the most part because there are not sufficient people in the country to give the nation's property the business it requires to improve its balance sheet. But how does Mr. Meighen expect to solve the problem by imposing a tariff policy which would merely increase the cost of living and abolish the incentive which has brought back thousands of Canadians from the United States?

Mr. Meighen is like all high protectionists. He ignores the controlling factor—the consumer, the man who buys the products of the establishments which the Tory policy would protect, the man whose pay cheque is written by an employer for services rendered and is not increased every time the tariff wall. What this country requires is a scale of living that will give the worker a chance. If he has to stand on tiptoe to reach it, he is going to lose interest and will take the line of least resistance and probably leave the country. The solution of the railway problem will be found with the growth of population. Population will increase if producing costs are reasonable. Mr. Meighen and his Party would make it more difficult for the producer by charging him high prices for his implements—a policy to benefit the few at the expense of the many. The King Government puts the thing the other way round and follows the democratic principle as understood by "the greatest good for the greatest number."

QUITE SAFE

RADICALISM IN THE ranks of British Labor has suffered two distinct reverses at the Trades Union Congress at Scarborough this week. The first came in the form of a refusal of this great body to give the council full power to call a general strike in the event of what the "red" element might consider a serious challenge to the "fundamental principles of trades unionism." The second setback, a rather striking one in view of what took place recently in connection with the coal mining industry, struck the disciples of Moscow yesterday when a proposal to form one big union was defeated by the comfortable margin of half a million votes.

There is nothing really surprising in either of these rebuffs. When British Labor gets down to its annual business, facing the issues which are of special concern to the organized workers, it is fairly certain that the moderating influence, particularly of those of its leaders who see considerably farther than the end of their noses, prevails and suspends, usually frustrating entirely, action which would tend to destroy most of the dearly-bought advantages which the British worker enjoys. This attitude is his sheet anchor. It has been, is now, and always will be an effective bulwark against the doctrines imported from Russia or those models of a world remade which exist in the agitated brain of the local crank.

"A THOUGHT—A CHANCE"

To the Editor.—In an article, "Musical Notes" in The Times of last Saturday, Sept. 5, 1925, Mr. George J. Dyke undertakes to administer—in a somewhat puerile fashion—advice to the Ladies' Musical Club, and at the same time criticizes their efforts in bringing three well-known artists to Victoria. It may not appear in the same light to others, but the old saying, "Fools rush in where angels fear to tread" still holds good.

We agree with Mr. Dyke in wishing we could hear more artists of note, whether they live in Victoria, on the Pacific Coast, or on the Atlantic. The ones who live in Victoria are for the most part showing their interest in our work by buying season tickets. The "visiting artists" will have no more appreciative listeners than those who will have so much in common with them. In some instances they will have little or nothing to fear by way of comparison with the local artists. Only an artist interested in the performance Mr. Dyke says further "Here is food for thought for our local Ladies' Musical Club, who this season are seemingly devoted to the study of the future of a small number of visiting artists. Give our resident artists a thought—'a chance.' Now, as a matter of fact, the Ladies' Musical Club needs no suggestion even of 'food for thought.' They have enough thinking to do as it is. What they do need is the active interest of every person in Victoria who is in the least interested in music, or who is willing to contribute five dollars for a season ticket and give it to someone else who would enjoy the concerts. We need to sell several hundred tickets to meet the cost—$3,500—of giving the three concerts, and the price of five dollars for the three performances is attractive enough to warrant our expectations of selling out the house. If Mr. Dyke will bring some of the local artists on his list we will be assured of a busy season in the musical world and too busy to worry over the affairs of the Ladies' Musical Club. In his connection I would like to call attention to a telegram received from Miss Stevens on September 2, 1925: "My artists have not been quoted to any other than Ladies' Musical Club. I was in answer to a telegram from me telling her of the efforts of someone in Victoria to make us believe that the Ladies' Musical Club was paying more than they should for their artists. I believe the executive would welcome any honest, helpful criticism of a constructive kind; but the peculiar quality of Mr. Dyke's efforts does not appear very strongly to a body of earnest, intelligent women who have no reason for working as they are except the love of music and the desire to give the best of their art to the public. And they are not 'seemingly' devoting their chief energies to the work in hand; they are uncompromisingly and with one accord devoting all their energies to securing a capacity house for each artist they have engaged. The Ladies' Musical Club executive is only too anxious to give any assistance they could to Madame Germaine Schmitzer some months ago when her contract had been cancelled, and we felt so well that we were going to give her a house for the season. We told her then we would want her to play here this year under our auspices. With Mrs. Germaine Schmitzer to close it, and Efrim Zimbalist and Anna Case to appear in between, the two, we are assured of a splendid season, and the 'resident artists' are sure of the interest of the Ladies' Musical Club without Mr. Dyke's touching appeal. The Ladies' Musical Club of this year will include a recital by one of the most talented of the younger artists of the city, and the price of eleven tickets to the B. C. Musical Festival will give the programme at the Tea at Government House the first week in October through the concert of Mrs. Germaine Schmitzer. In the meantime, we sincerely hope to have all the season tickets for the 'Artists' Series' sold by the end of September, and we will then be ready to take up any other work that we can do. The Ladies' Musical Club has no quarrel with any other manager or management but they rather resent Mr. Dyke's trying to belittle the work of an organization that like the Arion Club has stood the test of time, and held its own through hard times as well as good. Each club like each individual has its own problems and its own work, and I do not think the Ladies' Musical Club in its past or present has anything to learn from the Arion Club. The membership and interest have increased from year to year, and we have done more with the possible exception of the young musicians than any of all other organizations.

EARL MAY REMAIN CITIZEN OF U.S.

London, Sept. 10.—Oliver Henry Wallop of Wyoming, who this week inquired the title of Earl of Portsmouth, will not have to relinquish his United States citizenship provided he does not take his seat in the House of Lords, when he would have to take the oath of allegiance to the King, it is stated. He would then automatically lose his United States citizenship. A number of United States citizens hold British titles, among them being Lord Fairfax, Lord Camperdown and Lord Fermoy.

A dispatch from Sheridan, Wyoming, yesterday, said: Oliver Henry Wallop said to-day he would attempt to hold both his new title and his United States citizenship.

"I could not renounce the title," he asserted. "I am the Earl of Portsmouth, no matter what I say. The title cannot change hands. 'I intend to live here, yet the title remains mine and cannot be taken away. It will pass on to my son.' 'I never will forsake my home,' the new cowboy earl said when asked about his plan to leave the future he declared he hated to leave the Wyoming mountains and ranges for even a small portion of the year. Today Wallop was busy working on his 3,000-acre ranch, directing his employees. He is the dean of the little colony of former Englishmen who have settled on ranches in Little Goose Canyon, sixteen miles south-east of here.

The earl declared his present plans were to depart for England in November.

London Still Bans Loans to Canada, Financier Reports

Toronto, Sept. 10.—Returned from a three months' visit to Great Britain, E. Ames, head of a local firm of investment bankers, stated the understanding between the London bankers and the British Government was that the price of new financing that would involve export of gold and so make difficult the operation of the gold standard was still in force. He said the said likely to be observed for a month or more, until the Government should feel the position assured. As a consequence, the price of new borrowing in the London market for months.

Foreign loans had been effectively barred from entering that market and only a few minor loans had been made, he said. The withdrawals of gold had therefore been reduced to the minimum. There are one or two factors which render Canadian borrowing in London impracticable at present notwithstanding the restoration of the pound sterling to its former position. In the first place the so-called embargo on the sale of outside securities in the London market is at the moment an absolute bar to any borrowing. In the second place, Canadian can borrow on better terms at home or in New York.

AMUNDSEN PLANS 1926 POLE FLIGHT IN SEMI-RIGID AIRSHIP

Has Purchased N-1 From Italian Government and Chosen Members of Party

Route Will Be From King's Bay, Spitzbergen, to Nome, on Alaska Coast

Oslo, Norway, Sept. 10.—Lieut. Hjalmar Riiser-Larsen, who piloted one of the aeroplanes in which the Amundsen party made its recent attempt to reach the North Pole, to-day gave details of Amundsen's plans for a new attempt next year to fly across the Pole. Lieut. Riiser-Larsen made his statement at a meeting of the Norwegian Aero Club in the absence of Capt. Amundsen, who was indisposed.

He said Capt. Amundsen had purchased the semi-rigid dirigible N-1 from the Italian Government for $15,000.

Next year's expedition, Lieut. Riiser-Larsen said, would consist of Capt. Amundsen, Lincoln Ellsworth, the co-leader of this year's expedition, who has obtained half the capital necessary for next year's flight in the United States; Lieut.-Col. Nobile, of Italy, builder of the N-1; Lieut. Riiser-Larsen, Lieut. Dietrichsen and Oskar Ommundsen, a reserve pilot who accompanied Amundsen as far north as Spitzbergen, and Amundsen's brother Gustav.

RADIO MEN NEEDED

Besides these there would be a staff of mechanics, of whom several will be Italians. Wireless operators also will be included. Lieut. Riiser-Larsen said that when the airship made the polar flight she would be named the Norway and would fly the Norwegian flag. The plan, he said, was to start from King's Bay, Spitzbergen, and to fly across the pole to Nome, Alaska. Mooring masts would be built at Trondhjem, Norway, and at King's Bay.

TO GO TO ENGLAND

Lieut. Riiser-Larsen said it was planned to fly the N-1 in March to Pulham in England, and thence to King's Bay, Spitzbergen, in case of bad weather. From King's Bay the airship would follow a course to the Pole, from there to Point Barrow, and thence to Nome.

SONG TRIUMPHS OF VICTOR EDMUNDS TO BE HEARD SATURDAY

Those who have followed the career of the popular Victoria tenor, Victor Edmunds, since his departure for wider fields, will be glad of the opportunity to hear him when he gives his recital on Saturday evening of this week in the Memorial Hall. Carl Bronson, music critic of Los Angeles, writing of Bach's "Christmas Oratorio," given by the Los Angeles Oratorio Society, with Sophie Braslau, soprano, of the celebrated contralto of the day taking part, says: "One of the triumphs of the performance was that of the tenor, Victor Edmunds, whose beautiful, resonant, feeling more than fulfilled expectations, and while his part in the score was largely confined to recitatives, his solos were brilliantly commanding, his rich voice filling every bit of the space before him. It was evidently one of his hours." Bruno David Usher, another Southern writer, says: "Victor Edmunds stood out among soloists, not by sheer loveliness of tone and technique, but he imbued his recitatives and high florid arias with depth of feeling rarely found in Bach singing." As the occasion affords the last opportunity of hearing Mr. Edmunds for a long period, a large turnout of music lovers and friends is anticipated. The seat sale is now at Fletcher Bros., and the recital will commence at 8.15 o'clock.

She Was Weak, Thin and Nervous

One of the greatest strength givers and producers of good health food in the world is Cod Liver Extract. It's full of vitamins. Thank goodness that now, when a woman is weak and haggard and doesn't weigh what she ought to, she knows where to go for help as all druggists are now selling McCoskey's Cod Liver Extract Tablets, sugar coated, and as easy to take as candy. And it's a mighty good thing for skinny, rundown men and women to know that they can get the real Cod Liver vitamins in condensed form that they can easily carry with them wherever they travel. Men and women, weak, thin and nervous, are urged to put on weight and get back their health and strength with these wonderful tablets. One woman gained 15 pounds in five weeks and that's going fast enough for anyone. Only 60 cents for 60 tablets, and if they don't put five pounds of flesh on any thin person in 30 days—why money back and no quibbling about it, either. But be sure and get McCoskey's, the original and genuine, Vancouver Drug Co., MacFarlane Drug Co., Owl Drug Co., and druggists everywhere are selling lots of them. (Adv.)

SENSATIONAL FILM OPENS ITS RUN AT COLUMBIA THEATRE

Well known English artists reached Victoria this morning to assist in the presentation of the sensational film "The Man They Could Not Hang" which opened its three-day run at the Columbia Theatre this afternoon.

Judging by the lineup at the theatre to-day, the production bids fair to break records here, as elsewhere.

The accompanying artists include W. Leonard Howe, formerly with Sir J. Forbes-Robertson, and Miss

CONCERT ORCHESTRA AND VOCALIST AT DOMINION TO-NIGHT

A. L. Prescott's orchestra and J. Delos Jewkes, the basso singer, whose magnificent voice is delighting Dominion patrons, will be heard in a fine programme at the Dominion Theatre to-night.

Mr. Jewkes will sing "Friend of Mine," a song he sings in a style that is distinctly his own, displaying the great range and power of his splendid voice. His other number, "The Olden Days," from the opera, "Robin Hood," is also rendered in a decidedly masterful and stirring manner. Director Prescott has arranged a varied and tuneful programme to accompany the feature attraction, "A Son of His Father." Harold Bell Wright's latest masterpiece, in which he will introduce the following numbers: "La Paloma," "Traveller," "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," "Ball My Wild Irish Rose," "Oleto Selection," "Princess Pat," "Herbert Fox Trot," "Marguerite," "Jones The Conquero," Dominion News, and lesser subjects comprising this week's show, will also be featured in a musical manner.

DIRECTOR FILLED LARGE ORDER WITH "LIGHTNIN'"

The William Fox screen version of John Golden's celebrated stage success "Lightnin'" at the Capitol Theatre all week had a tremendous order to fill, being adapted from Frank Bacon's finest achievement. But it filled the order, generously and completely.

"EBENEZER" IS STRAIGHT COMEDY OF SPARKLING KIND

Romance, comedy, adventure, action and delightful musical numbers are included in the comprehensive programme that is offered to Coliseum patrons this week. "Ebenzer" is straight comedy, one laugh flashing after another like bubbles in champagne.

The story of "Too Many Kisses," Richard Dix's latest Paramount star picture is being shown at the Coliseum Theatre. It is chock-full of interesting situations, has more than its share of humor and is a delightful romance in addition. Pictures for yourself Paramount's new star, Brandon, in his father's office in New York City. Gaylord, Sr., thinks his son pays entirely too much attention to the women and not enough to business at hand so he ships him abroad, presumably to search for an unknown valuable metal—in reality to make him forget about his many girl friends, for a while and, perhaps, get a little work out of him.

ARIZONA SETTING FOR SCREEN SHOW NOW AT DOMINION

The setting of the new Victor Fleming production for Paramount, "A Son of His Father," adapted for the screen by Anthony Goldsworthy from Harold Bell Wright's best-selling novel, is the fascinating one of the changing west as it noticeably shifts in the brief lapse of time between father and son. Heald Love, Warner Baxter and Raymond Hatton are featured in the cast of the production, a stirring tale woven around a band of cattlemen, cowboys and a faithful old fellow named One of the big scenes shows a stampede of more than one hundred horses.

The time is the present, but the band by its daring has transformed the civilized into the primitive. There are heart-interest and sympathy mingled with thrill and comedy. Walter McGrath, recently seen in the Jack London story, "Adventure," heads the "strong supporting cast." Other big names are Charles Stevens, Carl Stockdale, James Farley and Billy Eugene.

"A Son of His Father," at the Dominion Theatre this week, is the first Harold Bell Wright novel to be screened by Paramount—and it's done in true Paramount style.

ABSORBING STORY IS UNFOLDED IN "THE MIRACLE MAN"

A most absorbing story is unfolded in the new Paramount Artcraft picture, "The Miracle Man," which is the screen attraction at the Playhouse Theatre this week. This picture, which was adapted from George M. Cohan's striking Broadway success by the same name, is declared to be one of the really great screen dramas of modern times. The original story was written by Frank L. Backard. The plot of "The Miracle Man" deals with the moral transformation of a gang of New York crooks under the beneficent influence of a deaf and blind patriarch, who is a healer of proven powers. Coming to him originally with the idea of making money out of his gift, these four products of the slums are miraculously transformed into better selves.

REGINALD STEWART, CANADIAN PIANIST, WILL TOUR WEST

Reginald Stewart, Canadian pianist, who has just returned from a series of triumphs in England, is shortly to appear in a concert tour throughout Canada, visiting Ontario in October and November, the West after Christmas, and the Maritime Provinces in the Spring. He is the first Canadian to have played the celebrated Bournemouth Easter Festival, under the baton of Sir Dan Godfrey, in addition to giving several recitals in London and the provinces.

Watson Lyell, famous critic of the Musical Standard, said of him "I shall always go to hear Mr. Stewart because he is above all else an artist."

NERVOUS WRECK FROM BOWEL TROUBLE

Ten Years of Suffering
Ended by "Fruit-a-lives"

Mr. F. M. SULLIVAN

"For over ten years, I was a complete nervous wreck, owing to severe Bowel Trouble and Acute Indigestion. Though a big man, I could hardly lift the smallest weight without suffering pain. As a last resort I started using 'Fruit-a-lives.' Like a cloud, the nervousness left me after using the first box. I use the tablets according to directions. The result is, to-day I am free of Indigestion and Bowel Troubles, and cannot recommend the wonderful Fruit Treatment too highly."

Thus writes Mr. Sullivan of 12 Pine Street, Geneva, N.Y. "Fruit-a-lives" are made from intensified juices of luscious fruits—there is no other medicine like them. 25c and 50c at all dealers. (Adv.)

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily and the Fish Hawk

Uncle Wiggily had such a happy time at the seashore, where he made friends with a soft crab, that the rabbit gentleman stayed a day longer than he intended.

"Shall you be lonesome if I don't come back right away?" the bunny gentleman telephoned by wireless to his wife in the hollow stump bungalow in Woodland.

"Lonesome, of course," answered Mrs. Longears with a smile, though naturally, the bunny gentleman couldn't see the smile by radio. "But the little bunnies and I wish you to have a good time."

So on the second day of his stay at the beach, Uncle Wiggily was walking up and down the sand near the big ocean, wondering what sort of adventure would happen next. He had not long to wait, for just then a fish fell flapping at his feet—a large one it was, too, the silver scales gleaming in the sun.

"That fish must have jumped out of the ocean," thought Uncle Wiggily, which was a strange thing for a fish to do unless it was playing, or unless a shark was chasing it. For well he knew that sometimes, when the sharks cluster in the sea, the smaller swimmers leap high out of the water so the shark can't get them. But just then there was a whirr of big wings in the air over the rabbit's head and a voice cried:

"Please throw that fish in the water so I can pick it up in my claws. It's my fish—I caught it but dropped it. Put it in the water for me!"

Mr. Longears glanced up to see, circling and swooping around his head a large fish hawk, osprey or fish eagle, by all three names the bird being known.

"Please toss my fish into the water," begged the hawk. "I can't pick it up from the sand—it must be in the water. And I need the fish to feed my little birds. They are in the stick nest on top of the dead pine tree in the woods."

Seeing that it could not live, for the hawk's claws had pierced it, Uncle Wiggily tossed the fish back into the ocean. In an instant, as it floated on a heaving wave, the osprey swooped down, took a firm hold and then, with a great flapping of its wet wings, the bird rose in the air, carrying the fish with it.

"Thank you for helping me get back the meal for my little birds," whistled the fish hawk as he flew toward the stick nest atop of the dead pine. "Some day I may do you a favor, Uncle Wiggily."

"I don't mention it," spoke the bunny politely. But it was that same afternoon, when walking on the beach, and wondering if star fish twinkled at night, that something happened.

A Sea Lion bobbed up out of the ocean and flopped his way over the sand behind Uncle Wiggily. "I hope I catch that rabbit!" whispered the Sea Lion. "The Sea Wolf couldn't get him yesterday, but I may now. I'll do my best!"

But just as the Sea Lion was about to give an extra big flop and catch the bunny, the fish hawk swooped down out of the sky and stuck its claws in the Sea Lion's hat. Now the Sea Lion was bald-headed and he was so ashamed of this, never wanting any of his friends to know it, that he always wore a hat, the Sea Lion did.

And when he felt his hat snatched off by the fish hawk, the Sea Lion roared:

"Oh! Oh! Come back with my hat! I wouldn't have even Uncle Wiggily see my bald head!"

"Then you had better flop back into the sea," laughed the fish hawk as he flew off with the bald chap's

hat. "For you aren't going to get it back!"

And when the Sea Lion saw that he could no longer hold his hat under his hat—for his hat was gone—back into the ocean he flipped and flopped, and so he didn't get Mr. Longears.

"Thank you, Fish Hawk!" called the bunny as the bird dropped the Sea Lion's cap far off in the dark and distant wood. "Thank you!"

TO-MORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 10.

An active state of affairs may be expected on this day, judging by the inclining phase of the moon with relation to Mercury, which may stimulate all commercial as well as professional engagements. Saturn, in trine with Luna, assists this auspicious rule, making way for progress and substantial return for industry and application by the removal of some stubborn obstacle or long-continued congestion. However, be careful with new projects.

Those whose birthday it is are under the promise of an active year in which steady progress may attend quiet industry and appreciation. A long-thwarting obstruction may be removed to make way for substantial growth. It is urged that there be precaution against deception in new ventures. A child born on this day may be clever, versatile, steady and industrious and should make a fair success through these endowments.

MEETING ADDRESSED BY MRS. FERRABEE

Memorial Hall Filled to Hear Noted W.A. Worker

Mrs. Schofield took the chair at the mass meeting on Wednesday evening in the Memorial Hall, which was filled to the doors to hear the address of Mrs. Ferrabee of Montreal. In introducing the speaker Mrs. Schofield expressed the pleasure of the Western Diocese to welcome the Dominion Board to the Coast. At last, eleven years ago the meetings of the board were to have been held in Vancouver, but the war came, and the plans had to be cancelled. Mrs. Ferrabee thanked the meeting for the warm welcome given to her, and spoke of the deep impression made on all who had accompanied her on the long journey by the wonders of nature through which they had traveled.

In outlining the need of such an organization as the W.A., the speaker described world conditions from the Pacific to the Atlantic, in Africa, India, China and Japan. Mrs. Ferrabee appealed to those who have not already taken their share in helping to bring the knowledge of their Saviour to the uttermost parts of the earth, to join with the active workers.

Successful Outing Held at Rodd Hill

About 300 members of the United Service and of Victoria Lodges, with their families and friends, made the first annual picnic at the Rodd Hill, on Labor Day, a huge success.

Perfect weather made the outing a most enjoyable one, and happy crowds of children thronged the beach at Rodd Hill, who carried over 250 by the water route. The sports were carried out without a hitch and the presentation of the prizes, many of which were of household variety, such as a side of bacon, a leg of pork and a round of beef, also a very much alive rooster, was received with applause.

Consolation prizes were offered to T. W. Brownjohn on winning the $100 scholarship offered by the International Engineering School, by drawing the lucky number of 138 in the tombola.

Supper and music provided by Messrs. "Buster" Brown on the band and "Bunge" Brown on the piano, kept all occupied until the return journey home.

Esquimalt Women Plan Fancy Fair

Arrangements for a fancy fair and flower show to be held on September 23 were made at the regular monthly meeting of the Esquimalt Women's Institute, which took place last evening at the Parish Hall. The attractions will include stalls for flowers and plants, home-cooking, and one seasonal novelty. Afternoon tea will be served and a short musical programme is promised. In the evening there will be a card party. Both events will be held in the church house.

A masquerade dance is planned for October 28, further particulars of which will appear later. A vote of thanks was given to all who assisted the institute in tagging on Saturday last.

Mrs. Booth, the president was in the chair. The hostesses of the evening were: Mesdames Johnson, Stockley, Parkes and Lockley.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson Pursues Her Mission

Geneva, Sept. 10.—Not far from the spot on the shore of Lake Lemano where President Wilson originally planned to build the home of the League of Nations and erect a gateway of peace dedicated to the legions of men who had fallen in the World War, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson lives in a lakeside villa, continuing her pilgrimage to Geneva.

Nothing disturbs her tranquility of spirit, and nothing, apparently possibly can induce her to abandon her determination quietly to pursue the mission which she assigned herself. That mission is to study the League of Nations, which her husband founded, and to do it, as would any of the thousands who come to Geneva—quietly, modestly without ostentation and without special privilege.

Mrs. Wilson positively refuses all invitations to "functions" suggested in her honor.

QUEEN MARY IS A CONNOISSEUR OF ANTIQUES

London, Sept. 19.—Queen Mary's hobby is selecting antiques. It is generally known that she is not fond of shopping in the big stores of London, and it is seldom she enters one, but in visiting antique shops she unerringly chooses the most perfect specimens of workmanship. In these shops where the Queen deals regularly, it is a custom for managers to put aside any particularly exquisite or curious piece so that she may have first choice in its purchase.

At the meeting for girls on Friday at 8 p.m., to be held in the Memorial Hall, Mrs. Ferrabee will speak; also Mrs. Williams James of Calgary, Dominion Girls' Secretary, and all girls, not only members of the W.A., are asked to attend that meeting, which will be convened by Miss Duncan, Diocesan Girls' Secretary.

BRITISH DRIVE FOR MORE EMPIRE TRADE OUTLINED TO ROTARY

J. S. Wardlaw-Milne, M.P., Tells of Need of Empire Co-operation

J. S. Wardlaw-Milne, British Member of Parliament for Kildare, addressed the Rotary Club luncheon to-day at the Chamber of Commerce, speaking on the great problems facing Britain at the present-day, and the prospects ahead of the British Commonwealth of Nations, as viewed from a trade outlook.

He pointed out that in Britain 1,350,000 people are registered as out-of-work, with over 2,700,000 persons depending upon relief for maintenance.

He referred to the great trade impetus England obtained from the invention of the motor car, which resulted in all the world calling upon Britain for railway products. Machinery had given a great impetus to manufacturing, such as the cotton trade, while the development of gold production over the world had likewise aided Britain enormously.

Mr. Wardlaw-Milne showed that the British steel and iron trade has comparatively stood still in recent years, while the German and United States production has vastly multiplied.

EMPIRE TRADE

"So we are faced with the problem, how are our people to be fed, clothed and housed? It is a truth that the fate of Britain depends upon the Empire's progress. It is a fact that our trade with other nations has progressed little, while that with the Dominion grows steadily. Each man woman and child in the Dominion, as a trade source, is worth to Britain over 2½ years' work of the United States is worth only ten shillings, while each Russian is worth in trade only two pence."

"It is impossible for any part of the Empire to settle unless markets can be found for what those territories produce. Still, Britain is by far your best market, and despite the handicaps I have referred to, is still growing."

"In recent months a campaign has been started in England for 'Empire buying' and this Fall a conference will be held here."

Pennant Hopes Are Rekindled In Camp Of Elongated Mack

Philadelphia Athletics Win Second Game From Washington and Show Life

Pirates Have Their Lead in National League Reduced; Yankees Lose Again

New York, Sept. 10.—Two successive victories over the world champion Senators have rekindled pennant hopes in the Philadelphia American League camp. The hopes are based on slight mathematical chances, however. Although they are still trailing by seven games, the Athletics have pulled an even break out of the series with the Senators and their lethargy which extended through twelve games of a losing streak, is ended. The Mackmen came out of a free hitting game yesterday on the long end of a 9-7 score.

In the only other American League game the Yanks bowed before the Red Sox 5-4. Pittsburgh lost the final game of a series to the Cubs, 9-7, after an 11-inning affair. The setback reduced the lead of the Pirates over the Giants to 7½ games.

Other clubs in the National League were not scheduled.

GOING BACK TO BOXING

Chicago, Sept. 10.—Ed. White, a local wrestling promoter to-day opened negotiations with Gabo Kaufman of Kansas City, manager of Wayne Munn, to purchase the contract of the Nebraska wrestling giant, Munn, since losing to Ed. "Strangler" Lewis, has expressed a desire to return to boxing, in which he started his profession.

Bring His Club In Again?

STANLEY HARRIS

With Pittsburgh practically a sure thing in the National League the fans are watching with interest the effort being made by Stanley Harris to win his second consecutive pennant for Washington in the American League. There is rejoicing everywhere over the fact that the monopoly of New York on the world's series has passed. Pittsburgh has knocked the Giants out of the running in the National and the Yankees are nowhere in the American League. It is a race between Washington and Connie Mack's Athletics.

Interest Keen Over Reddick-Cliffe Go In Vancouver Ring

Sluggers Battle For Canadian Light-heavyweight Championship To-morrow

Vancouver, Sept. 10.—Boxing fans are asking the question: "Who will win the battle for the Canadian light-heavyweight championship at the Arena Friday night—Jack Reddick, the titleholder, or Roy Cliffe, the challenger?" There is no way to determine the other than by the actual contest itself, but comparisons are always in order and fully interesting.

Many point out that Reddick, by reason of his more extended experience, his familiarity with the longer route, and his more rugged make-up, looks to have the better chance for victory.

There are others who point out that Cliffe is the faster boxer, hits the harder blows and is a more clever boxer than Reddick. They maintain that this will offset any advantage that the Canadian titleholder may have along other channels. No matter how the match may result it is believed that it will prove highly interesting.

CLIFFE NEW ON LONG ROUTE
Reddick has repeatedly gone 10 and 12 rounds and in one instance he travelled over the longer route. Cliffe has never been called upon to go farther than eight rounds.

When he engaged that great colored battler, Young Peter Jackson at this time he stepped the full distance of eight rounds and took the decision handsily. His manager, Lonnie Austin, says that Cliffe could have gone 25 rounds that night and is not in the least worried over the prospect of his boxer not being able to travel ten rounds with Reddick.

Cliffe has made a very favorable impression on Vancouver fans who have seen him in his workouts at the Calvary club and there are many who are firm in their belief that he will take the championship.

Records of the two fighters show both boys have been in some good bouts. Fifteen of the best battles of the contestants are as follows:

Jack Reddick—Gunner Joe Quinn, won 12; Billy Emke, no decision, 10; Wild Bill Reed, no decision, 10; Billy Shade, draw, 20; Harry Fay, draw, 12; Wild Bert Kenny, knock-out, 6; Jack Bloom, knock-out, 5; Soldier Jones, knock-out, 2; Billy Harms, knock-out, 5; Jack O'Brien, knock-out, 3; Soldier Buck, knock-out, 2; Mike O'Connor, knock-out, 11; Billy McGowan, knock-out, 5; Homer Robertson, knock-out, 5; Homer Robertson, knock-out, 5; Tom Wicks, knock-out, 2; Ed. WILLIAM FORAN OF OTTAWA TO BE NAMED LANDIS OF PRO HOCKEY

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—The Morning Journal publishes the following on its front page this morning:
"William Foran, Stanley Cup trustee and internationally known sport authority and after-dinner speaker, has been made the 'Judge Landis' of hockey." His powers will not be so broad in scope as that of the supreme arbiter of baseball, but will follow along the same lines.
"The Western Canada Hockey League and the National Hockey League have been in conference for some time over the selection of an official suitable for this office and the unanimous endorsement of Mr. Foran followed."
"The certainty of such an appointment in hockey has been apparent for some time and was emphasized last year in the case of the Hamilton players' strike. Mr. Foran, because of his wide experience in hockey, his fairness and his dignity, is the logical selection. He will have all authority in matters of dispute between the two leagues, such as territorial rights, the arrangement of games and will have supreme authority over both leagues in those instances where the leagues cannot meet in agreement."

Staples Defeats Davies By Length In Great Finish

Local Bicycle Rider Gains Thrilling Victory Over P.N.W. Champion

Davies Entered Protest But Later Withdrew it; Local Boy Finishes Fourth

Vancouver, Sept. 10.—Flashing across the line a length ahead of Jim Davies, B.C. and Northwest champion, Charlie Staples, of Victoria, was the first winner of the Moody Cup for a seven-mile bicycle road race around Stanley Park last night. Thirty-eight riders, including one girl, Miss Edna Stevens, took part in the three divisions.

The race for the cup in the senior division was not fast and was marked by only two exciting instances. One was when a group of three or four riders led by Bill Feden, of Victoria, broke away to pile up quite a lead on Staples, Davies and the others. Davies pulled it down very handily with the rest of the division close on his wheel. The other was at the causeway where Staples gained a length on Davies at the turn coming out of the Lost Lagoon road and held it in a tremendous spurt to the finish.

Davies protested that Staples had cut him at the turn but later withdrew the protest.

JACK McPHEE FOURTH
Leo Marchiori was third in the senior with a good lead over Jack McPhee, of Victoria.

The time for the senior event was 15 minutes and 31 seconds. The intermediate division provided the best finish of the evening. Bert Stevens, a messenger boy, and Kenny Lambert, formerly one of Vancouver's best riders, raced neck and neck down the rough stretch at the finish, the former winning by inches only.

The time was 15:35 2-3, only seven seconds slower than the seniors.

The junior division went to A. Littlejohn, one of the best riders in the city, who won by a comfortable margin. The time was 13 minutes and 40 seconds.

Dr. Moody, donor of the principal trophy, presented the prizes at the finish of the race.

The French Canadian who now makes Portland his fighting headquarters also has a decision over Foley. With Foley winning on points to the eighth of a ten-round bout Mascot placed his right accurately and Foley from then on lost his aggressiveness. He finished the distance, but it was Mascot's fight. Foley, however, has had a successful run since that time, and his manager, Jack Allen, has a lot of confidence in his young title holder.

The association also plans to import Portland, Vancouver or Seattle men to meet Mascot, Fleiding, Woodley and Lewis.

Pictorial Golf Instruction

By H. B. Martin
Allow the Clubhead to Complete Its Work

Ninety per cent of the golfers who are short drivers, or who push their shots off to the right, stop the clubhead before it has a chance to complete its work. As a result the ball flies off to the right, and sliced but merely pushed in that direction because the clubhead has failed to straighten out the shot.

To cure this evil one must get into the habit of bringing the hand up as high as the head. If this is done each time the club will come through. The idea is to keep this in the mind at first, until it becomes a part of the swing and one does it automatically.

The clubhead must not be forced through, however, and one must be sure to see that the direct hit is made before the body or the hand do their principal work. For anybody other than the hands being too far out in front.

VIC FOLEY

Foley and Mascot Will Put On Real Battle On Sept. 18

Fans Can Rest Assured That Canadian Championship Bout Will be a Pippin

In announcing a Canadian championship battle for Friday, September 18, the Victoria Boxing Association will offer an attraction at the Arena which they believe will meet with the full approval of the local fans. The much boasted Vic Foley, of Vancouver, will meet Billy Mascot, of Portland, in a ten-round bout in which the titular belt will be at stake. Both fighters have agreed to weigh in at 118 pounds by 2 o'clock on the afternoon of the fight and have posted forfeits to cover the agreement.

Mascot has been seen in action here before and made a big impression. He was scheduled to go ten rounds with Frankie Ellis, who came with an ably reputation from England. Mascot's smashing right hand-punch points to the eighth of a ten-round bout. Mascot placed his right accurately and Foley from then on lost his aggressiveness. He finished the distance, but it was Mascot's fight. Foley, however, has had a successful run since that time, and his manager, Jack Allen, has a lot of confidence in his young title holder.

NEW SOCCER TROPHY

The new trophy presented to the D.F.A. by the English Football Association will take the place of the Connaught Cup, and will be emblematic of the Canadian National Amateur Championship, it was decided by the delegates. The disposition of the Connaught Cup was left until next year's meeting, but it is anticipated it will become the emblem of the Junior Canadian championship.

During the discussion, it was pointed out by several delegates that the time was not yet ripe for professional football in Canada.

Quebec had advocated that the English trophy be put up for professional competition.

Last night the delegates attended a banquet as the guests of the Provincial Association. To-day they are going to Nanaimo and from there to Victoria.

Senior Golfers in East Gather For Annual Tournament

St. Andrews By-the-Sea, N. B., Sept. 10.—Players gathered here to-day from many parts of Canada for the eighth annual tournament of the Canadian Senior Golf Association, to be played over the links of the Algonquin Club. The championship is decided by two media rounds of 18 holes each, the title going to the player turning in the lowest gross score.

In the eight years of its existence the association has had only two champions. The noted player, G. S. Lyon, of Toronto, was champion for six years, losing to A. Parker of Toronto last year. A long list of prizes is competed for in the tournament, including trophies for the various classes in which the seniors are divided according to age and for putting.

On Monday the Canadian Seniors will send a team against fifteen representatives from the United States in matches and the Devonshire trophy, emblematic of the senior team championship of the North American continent. The United States won this trophy five times and Canada twice.

Last Minute News on Stocks and Financial Affairs

New York, Sept. 10 (By R. P. Clark & Co.)—Stocks absorbed the offerings in an impressive manner to-day, many sharp rallies were in order and the general advance was well maintained. Both the renewal and ruling money rate was lower and in the noon-hour the market received further stimulus from the steel tonnage report. The motor, rail, steel and equipment, with many of the specialties gave a good account of themselves. Though the oil shares were pronounced lagards probably influenced by reports of a renewal of the price cutting programme in various sections of Kansas, where gasoline was being offered by the independents at lowest price in history.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Sept. 10 (By R. P. Clark & Co.)—Wheat: Persistent selling dominated the pit throughout, largely as result of the bearish Government report on Spring wheat and expectation of a bearish estimate by the Canadian Government regarding crop prospects in prairie provinces. Liquidation was under way and the market suffered from lack of support. Private estimate from Winnipeg placed the Canadian crop as high as 400,000,000 bushels. Increased Russian shipments for the week also acted as a depressing factor, private advices having it that Russian offerings were free and below the American and Canadian parity.

Markings of wheat in Northwest continue lighter. Creditable authorities advise that bookings have been made as far ahead as April. The trade sees the probability of this country having a fair exportable surplus on this crop, and with our market above the world parity support is held in abeyance. We have had a good decline, but conditions are unsettled and continue to advise a trading position.

DESPAIR

When Paul Bannister turned from the window, after he had read Cartwright's letter to his wife telling that he was leaving for Europe with Madge Bannister, Alma Cartwright uttered a little frightened cry. She half arose from her chair with hand outstretched to guide his steps, for he walked uncertainly, like a man suddenly blinded. His face was grey and shrunken as though a hand, passed swiftly over it, had wiped every vestige of youth and life from it. In a second, he had become only a human shell.

He seemed not to see her commiserating gesture, for his eyes were lustreless, but he motioned her back to her chair mechanically and sank into the one he had occupied before. With almost meticulous care, he returned the letter she had given him to read.

"Forgive me, doctor," she said in a low voice, "I may have seemed brutal to you but I could think of no other way to break the news."
With an effort and haltingly he replied: "You have done all you could—and more."
"My heart aches for you, but there is nothing I can say which will express what I feel."
His head moved mechanically in acknowledgment.
"You are kind, Mrs. Cartwright, and very fair but your suffering is as great as mine—perhaps even more— you have your children to think of. I am alone."
"What's to be done?" she asked.
"That's why I sent for you. What can we do to avert the scandal and to make things right again? You speak of my children. It is for them that I would make any sacrifice. I would do a great deal, too, to help your wife."

He rose unsteadily. She felt that he did not even see her, that she was a voice coming out of the fog of his despair.
"I'm afraid you will have to pardon me if I take leave of you now. This has been such a blow that I can't think clearly. Will you give me a little time? Perhaps we can arrange a way. I don't know—I don't know."
She did not offer her hand nor accompany him to the door. But she watched with sad, commiserating eyes while he groped his way to the entrance.
A long time afterward, it seemed to her listening ears, she heard his car start in the street outside. The gears clashed as though the hand that drove had lost its deftness.
She was still sitting alone in the dimness when her daughter came running in from the garden.
"Oh, Mummy, do come out and play," the child begged, peering at her through the gloom. "I have read all that book you gave me and Junior is mad because I broke his compass and he won't speak to me and I am so jonesome. Let's have a tea party in the garden and let me pour the tea and play you are my guest."
Alma Cartwright gathered her inher arms and pressed the curly head against her breast. If a tear fell, it was lost in the profusion of hair as ash blond as her own.

"Alright, darling. Mummy will come out and play. Run and tell Della to bring us some of the cakes she was making this morning, but remember, only Cambric tea for you, young woman!"

She forced a smile to her dry lips when the child returned from her errand, and winding her arms around her mother's waist, accompanied her to the garden where the lad sat under his broken compass.

"Come here, Junior," the mother summoned him gently.

He came, expecting a rebuke, but she slipped her free arm around his shoulders and drew him to her side.

"Your sister tells me that you are angry with her because she broke something of yours. I want to tell you something, Junior, that you won't understand now, but I hope you will remember it."

"At a day not so far off, you are going to be a man and you will learn that girls are to be treated with tenderness and consideration. They are weaker than you and they hurt things that belong to you, even hurt you, without really meaning to. You must understand that and be big enough and fine enough to forgive them and forget it."

"She took him suddenly—by both shoulders and drawing him in front of her, looked earnestly into his eyes which were round with youthful awe."

"Junior, promise Mummy you will never harm or hurt a girl."

"Yes, Mummy, I'll promise," he wriggled uncomfortably out of her hold, "now can't we have something to eat?"

Meanwhile Paul Bannister sat in his empty study and stared at a small vial clutched in his hand.

It bore an ominous label.

THE LETTER THAT WAS NEVER RECEIVED

No one can ever know what Paul Bannister's thoughts were as he sat alone in his study in the empty house all that night after his interview with Alma Cartwright, when he learned that his wife had eloped to Europe with Alma's husband.

He left no letter.

It was characteristic of him that he showed no emotion outwardly when he returned home that afternoon. He went about the business of parking his car in its accustomed place before the house. He let himself in with his key and went directly to his study.

At seven o'clock a maid came to summon him to dinner. The study was dim with the approaching twilight and she could not see the drawn whiteness of his face, or the stricken look in his eyes.

He answered her quietly, telling her that he wished no dinner that evening.

"You may tell the cook and the maids that I shall require nothing else to-night. There is no need to remain in. You may all have the evening off."

"Thank you, sir," the girl stole a glance at the clock. She was thinking that she'd just have time to catch the evening excursion boat and spend the moonlit Summer evening on the river with her young man.

"He misses her something dreadful," she told the cook, referring to Madge. "Gee, but he's crazy about her and she treats him like dirt! Some women don't know when they got it good."

Through the haze of his agony, Paul Bannister heard the basement door finally close behind the last of his servants.

He was alone to face the wreck of his life.

Curiously enough, it never occurred to him to blame Madge or to be angry at her. His love was too great for that. It was not the fact that she had sinned, that she had betrayed him, ruined him, been false to her marriage vows, that had plunged him into inferno. It was the knowledge that he had lost her. His only sweet-heart, the wife he worshipped, had ceased to love him and gone away with another man.

He was too big and fine to feel self pity over the figure he would cut in the eyes of the world when the truth became known. He knew only desire for Madge. Her lovely face, her laughing eyes and alluring crimson lips, her radiance and charm.

When he thought of her in Cartwright's arms, he groaned aloud and dropped his head into his cupped hands, hands that shook with agony—the surgeon's hands that should be steady and would never be so again.

Even in his suffering he was not at all selfish, for he thought of Alma Cartwright and all she had to face. It was harder to be a deserted wife than a deserted husband, even though she didn't care as he did. And there were her children to consider. What a heritage for them. What a stigma, that would cling to them throughout all the remainder of their lives, that would poison all their future existence!

Night descended and he still sat there motionless. Several times the telephone shrilled—the hospital calling, perhaps—but he made no move to answer it. The front door bell rang and rang again. Still he didn't stir.

The tragedy of it was that the ring at the door was a messenger boy with a special delivery letter.

It was Patricia's letter, the one she had written that last night at the hotel and posted on her way to the boat the following morning.

That letter might have saved Paul Bannister, but by a little trick of fate he never received it.

The boy rang several times, leaning comfortably against the balustrade and whistling softly to himself. After a while, "he peered through the glass panels of the door, assured himself that there was no light within, remarked: "Nobody home!" and mounted his bicycle again.

When morning came, the maid opened the closed door of the study to do a bit of dusting before breakfast.

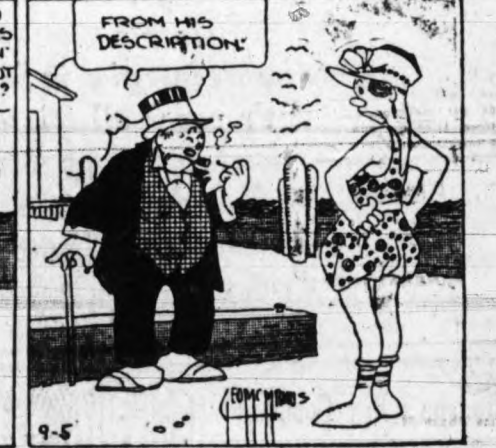

The bright sunlight of an early Summer morning fell slanting the chair where Bannister sat. It touched his hair, made a halo of its fairness.

For a moment the girl thought he was only sleeping, until she saw the empty vial that had fallen from his relaxed hand.

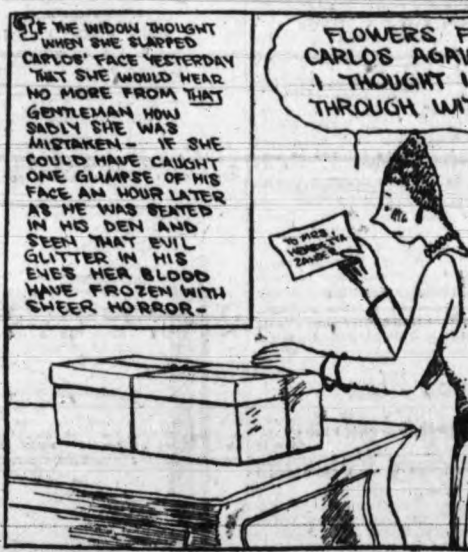

Then she knew that she was in the presence of Death.

THE GUMPS—A LETTER FROM CARLOS

The dainty woman does not KEEP Corns

Almost every woman spends hours every week in the care of her face—cold-creaming it, cleansing it, massaging it, to guard against the tiniest blemish. . . . But that doesn't prove her daintiness. It may merely indicate pride and vanity. . . . The real proof of perfect daintiness is the care a woman takes of the things that are not seen. . . . A blemish on her foot is as objectionable to her as one on her face. The moment a corn appears, she applies a Blue-jay. At once the pain goes, in 48 hours the corn goes too.
